

The Indiana Telephone Privacy law is one of the few things I can point to and say our government has done something right. It has made dinner time a time for family and prevented unwanted interruptions. Listen to the people - this is a very popular law for a reason, we don't want people invading our homes trying to sell us things.